Spring Welcome

Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company performing at NJPAC

The HCCC Department of Cultural Affairs (DOCA) celebrates diversity with a variety of programs and exhibitions. Our programs and exhibitions are learning experiences that transcend boundaries and aim to increase competency in all fields of education at any age. We offer free exhibition tours to Hudson County school groups and organizations in the Benjamin J. Dineen, III and Dennis C. Hull Gallery.

We are pleased to open our spring semester with Out on Broadway: A Visual Legacy, curated by costume designer and Hudson County resident James Crochet. Out on Broadway commemorates the art of LGBT set and costume design in shows such as The Producers, Kinky Boots, and Hedwig and the Angry Inch. DOCA continues to host NJPAC satellite performances with presentations from the Alvin Ailey and Nai-Ni Chen Dance Companies. In March during Women's History Month, the gallery proudly features an exhibition curated by the Carrie Haddad Gallery and select film screenings coordinated by Tribeca Film Festival star Delaney Buffett.

Thank you to all HCCC students, staff and community organizers for ensuring that this spring is a success. Can't wait to see you on the 6th floor of the Library Building at the Journal Square Campus!

Dineen Hull Gallery

At its October 2013 meeting, the Hudson County Community College Board of Trustees affirmed resolutions to accept a historic gift of more than 400 works of art from the personal collection of Benjamin J. Dineen, III and Dennis C. Hull. The Board also voted to name the gallery space in the College's Library Building in honor of the couple.

The collection of works presented to the College includes contemporary art, largely works on paper, from major and emerging New Jersey and American artists. In addition to the art itself, the gift also included a significant amount of ephemera and provenance documentation affiliated with the works, as well as a number of reference books that will be utilized in the College's library. The gift helped make the HCCC Foundation Art Collection one of the finest of any college in the country.

Mr. Dineen, who was Director of Development for the United Way of Hudson County and a member of the Hudson County Community College Foundation Board of Directors, passed away in April 2014. He and Mr. Hull, a retired teacher who now works at the Brodsky Center for Innovative Editions at Rutgers, were life partners who enriched the lives of the people of Hudson County by dedicating their time, expertise and resources to several individuals and organizations. Over the years, they generously contributed to the College's Foundation and the Foundation Art Collection. Mr. Dineen and Mr. Hull were also advocates for the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community in our area, and worked tirelessly to improve the rights and quality of life of all people.

This program is presented by _gaia, where an environment for creative process is dedicated to fostering women’s activism, art practice, and study. This year’s Wonder Women Project, “Eye of the Storm,” is being organized and curated by Doris Cacoilo and Eileen Ferrara.

On May 4 from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 pm, the Wonder Women Residency participants will present a panel discussion at HCCC on current social issues and other topics brought forth by the works in progress. The program will end with a group exhibit at the NJCU Harold B. Lemmerman Gallery, which will run from March 16 to May 11.

Spring Exhibitions

Out on Broadway: A Visual Legacy

Curated by James E. Crochet

January 25 – March 2

Closing Reception: March 2, 7 p.m. - 9 p.m.

The HCCC Department of Cultural Affairs and Curator James E. Crochet invite you to join us as we celebrate the visual legacy of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) experience on Broadway. On display will be costumes, sketches, and accessories from award-winning costume designers such as James E. Crochet, Gregg Barnes, Jess Goldstein, William Ivey Long, and Ann Hould-Ward to iconic LGBT characters in shows like Kinky Boots and Hedwig and the Angry Inch. Explore the creations that have made a night out on Broadway a memorable experience.

Groundbreaking productions such as La Cage aux Folles, winning six Tony Awards including Best Musical in 1983, ushered in a new era on Broadway. No longer were gay and transgender characters relegated to bit parts where they were presented as caricatures of commonly held stereotypes. The love between two men, the art of female impersonation, and the glitz and glamour of Broadway costume design finally synthesized in a financially and artistically successful venture. Groundbreaking issues such as marriage equality, bathroom bill controversies, and the recent historical election of transgendered politicians, have us seeing more and more LGBT issues highlighted in shows, along with more acceptance of the LGBT community and their long-standing contribution to the art form.

Programs planned throughout the exhibition include an artist talk, a Broadway Masquerade Party, and our annual LGBT legacy event.

James E. Crochet

Curator; Owner of Leading Lady Costumes; Costume Designer James Crochet has designed over 50 productions; 13 operas including Le Nozze di Figaro, Roméo et Juliette, The Merry Widow, and The Tales of Hoffman; and over 20 musicals, among them Les Misérables, The Full Monty, La Cage aux Folles, and West Side Story. Companies include Manhattan School of Music, PORTopera, The Ogunquit Playhouse, and the Helen Hayes Theatre Company. Additionally, he has designed for luminaries of stage and screen Jefferson Mays, Hunter Foster, Andrea McArdle, Nancy Dussault, Renée Taylor, Sally Struthers, and Rue McClanahan. Previous exhibitions include: All That Glitters: Embroidering Character in Costume for Art House Productions, Extreme Silhouettes, and Costuming the Great White Way for Stagefest at the landmark Loews, Jersey City. Crochet received his degree in Theatrical Design with an emphasis in Costume Design and Technology from the University of Northern Colorado.

Selections from Carrie Haddad Gallery

Curated by Linden Scheff
March 14 - April 21
Artist Reception: April 4,
5 p.m. - 7 p.m.

Two Men with Painted Tile, Mark Beard

Baby Bonnet, Kate Hamilton

Established in 1991 as the first fine art gallery in Hudson, NY, the Carrie Haddad Gallery represents professionally committed artists as well as emerging talent specializing in all types of painting, both large and small sculpture, works on paper, and a variety of techniques in photography. Occupying 3,000 sq. ft. on Warren Street, the gallery is conveniently located just two hours north of Manhattan. The annual exhibition schedule accommodates seven exhibits on the main floor as well as a rotating selection of photography displayed on the second floor.

The selection of artwork chosen for this exhibit at HCCC celebrates the versatility of Ms. Haddad's curating style, one that blends figuration with pure abstraction and everything in between.

Mark Beard (also known as Bruce Sargeant) is a contemporary artist who merges late 19th century English style portraiture with American 1980's fashion photography. Bruce Sargeant is one of the six invented artist persona channeled by Beard who celebrates traditionally masculine themes such as athletics and exploration. Combining this with intense homoeroticism, which is conveyed through the partially- or totally-undressed state of his subjects, Beard maintains the firm sense of artistic identity that has kept his work in high demand throughout his career. Hudson County Community College is proud to have Beard's work included in the College's Foundation Art Collection.

Birgit Blyth is one of our most innovative and prolific photographers who works in a darkroom yet uses no camera! Blyth has been experimenting with a technique known as chromoskedasic painting since the early '90s and variations on this concept have been shown at the Carrie Haddad Gallery for the last 20 years. The unusual process involves the use of silver particles in black and white photographic paper to scatter light at different wavelengths when exposed. Birgit Blyth succeeds at keeping her work fresh and cutting-edge using analog methods that are being quickly replaced elsewhere with digital technology.

Totem XI, David Dew Bruner

Grid No. 8, Birgit Blyth

David Dew Bruner's still lifes and figures drawn in graphite channel the highly graphic influences of Giorgio Morandi, Diego Velasquez, and the Italian futurists like Giacomo Balla and Marcel Duchamp. The likeness of each artist's subject is expressed on paper, re-envisioned through Bruner's characteristic style of excitedly applied graphite that produce shard-like fragments embedded with deep interwoven marks. These works explore depth, movement, space, and repetition that is more about design than reference. Bruner tastefully pairs drawings with a vintage frame from his collection, refashioning mirror frames from the 1960s or hand painting an antique Italian frame in lavender.

New Paltz based artist Kate Hamilton, will install larger-than-life garments made of sewn sailcloth. Suspended from the ceiling, a giant "Baby Bonnet" and "Pussy-Bow Shirt" dance above the floor; familiar shapes presented in unprecedented scale, breaking our usual associations with clothing. What one wears plays a crucial role in identity and reveals class, sexual orientation, and personality in an instant. With these works, Hamilton examines clothing's role in the perception of femininity. The large-scale garments culturally labeled as feminine create a metaphor for the female experience and confront the viewer with the strict gender roles still prevalent in society. The enormous pussy-bow shirt pays tribute to professional women feeling compelled to dress like men to compete in the workplace. Most notably, the design came into the spotlight when Yves Saint Laurent made it part of his signature Le Smoking 'power suit' look. The only difference between this design and Hamilton's male counterparts is the encumbering, feverishly constructed bow, a clear signifier of the frustration felt in the fight to equity.

HCCC Foundation Art Collection

Michelle Doll, Family (JMA1), 2014, Oil on Canvas

The Hudson County Community College (HCCC) Foundation Art Collection was founded in 2006 to coincide with the initiation of the College's Fine Arts studies program. The Collection affords HCCC students, faculty, and staff – as well as members of the community – with opportunities to view and enjoy the works. It also provides meaningful points of reference and inspiration.

The Foundation Art Collection now includes more than 1,000 works in media ranging from painting and sculpture to photographs, American craft pottery, and ephemera. The Collection depicts aspects of America's and New Jersey's rich artistic and cultural heritage from the Hudson River School period to present time. Works by noted American and local artists are permanently installed or slated for installation in public areas throughout the College's buildings on the Journal Square and North Hudson campuses.

Among the artists whose works may be viewed on our campuses are Will Barnet, Ricardo Barros, Chakaia Booker, Christo, Chuck Close, Willie Cole, Edward S. Curtis, Marcel Duchamp, Louis Eilshemius, Ernst Haas, Frank Gehry, Edmund Darch Lewis, Rockwell Kent, Sol LeWitt, Maya Lin, Gordon Parks, Jon Rapple, Man Ray, Faith Ringgold, Ed Ruscha, Ben Shahn, Myron Stout, William Wegman, Joan Snyder, Miriam Schapiro, and Lawrence Weiner.

Each year, the Foundation also adds works by HCCC students to the "Heritage" segment of the Foundation Art Collection as a way of celebrating emerging talent from the community.

The HCCC Art Collection is made possible thanks to the generosity of donors. Donations are utilized for acquiring works, as well as for special events, and items in-kind, such as art books for the College's Library.

Monetary donations are maximized with every dollar donated being matched by the HCCC Foundation and by the College itself. Donations may be made in memory of a loved one or friend, or to commemorate a milestone or an important event.

Artists, collectors and dealers may also donate artwork to the Art Collection. Those wishing to do so are asked to send a letter of intent, along with color copies (preferably 8x10") or a 300-dpi JPEG file of the piece, as well as a biography, CV and/or artist's statement, and any available press materials.

Please contact Hudson County Community College Foundation, 70 Sip Avenue – Fourth Floor, Jersey City, NJ 07306. You may also email Joseph Sansone at jsansone@hccc.edu or phone (201) 360-4006. www.hccc.edu/foundationcollection
